1.0 INTRODUCTION

This series of ANPS Data Reports provides an opportunity for Survey-affiliated researchers to make their toponymic data publicly accessible prior to a more formal publication at a later date. In some cases, the later analysis will be released in the Survey's standard format as a Placenames Report. In other cases, the material may be published in journals or monographs.

The nature of each issue in this present Series is determined by the type of research carried out by the author, and by the style of the data produced by that research.

1.1 The Norfolk Island dataset

This Data Report is a presentation of the database which evolved intuitively out of the author's developing fieldwork methodology during fieldwork on Norfolk Island between 2007-2011. Ethnographic fieldwork (that is, interviews to gather such toponyms as fishing ground names and photographing signs when on island), and archival sourcing (that is, searching published accounts and extracting placenames from maps) helped create the dataset. While the resultant document of over 1000 placenames is generic and not overly technical, it enabled the carrying out of the required technical linguistic and ethnographic analyses.

The resultant placename list was adequate and effective for its purpose, even though its technical apparatus may be somewhat lacking for the lexicographer or the GPS/GIS scholar. Although the dataset's architecture is not overly sophisticated and intricate, it covers a lot of historical and locational ground regarding the history of Norfolk Island placenaming and its relevance to the greater documentation of the Norfolk Island language.

1.2 The Norfolk Island story

Norfolk Island is significant to Australian linguistics because of its history of language contact and because its brief linguistic and cultural history has been well documented. Due to the island's remoteness, there are few external influences. Prior to 1788, when Europeans arrived on uninhabited Norfolk Island, it was linguistically and toponymically pristine. This means that patterns of placenaming arose without influence from earlier naming practices. Mühlhäusler (2002a: 89) notes, "because of its small size, its 'shallow history' and its multiple occupations, Norfolk Island is an ideal test case for students of toponymy."

Norfolk Island, an external territory of Australia, is a remote archipelago in the South Pacific (29° 02' S, 167° 57' E) with a permanent population of about 2000. Around half of this population are descendants of the Bounty mutineers who were moved from Pitcairn Island to Norfolk in 1856. The archipelago consists of three major islands and several offshore rocky outcrops nearby. These islands in the archipelago run from north to south. Norfolk (35 km²) is the largest, and two smaller uninhabited islands are Nepean (1 km²) and Phillip1 (5 km²). The archipelago is approximately 1700 kilometres from Sydney and 1100 kilometres from Auckland. Norfolk Island's cultural history can be divided into four main periods:

Norfolk Island

1. The first convict settlement from 1788 to 1814. Some First Settlement toponyms are Queensborough, Morgans Run, Phillipsburgh, Duncombe Bay and Orange Vale.
2. The planned hell of the second convict settlement from 1825 to 1855. Notorious names from this period include Barney Duffys, commemorating the convict who lived seven years in a tree stump on the west coast of Norfolk, and Bloody Bridge, the purported site of the massacre of an overseer by convicts who walled his body into the bridge later being discovered when the blood of the slain man seeped through the stonework.
3. The relocation in 1856 of the entire population of Pitcairn Island to Norfolk Island. There are many colourful names from this period, many of which are in Norf'k, like Stone fer George and Isaac's (George and Isaac's Stone), Ar Pool fer Helen's (Helen's Pool), and Dar Coop (The [Chicken] Coop).
4. The Melanesian Mission headquarters and school were stationed on Norfolk from 1867 to 1920. The Mission used the Melanesian language Mota as its scholastic language. The Mota name for Norfolk Island is Novo Kailana. Other Mota placenames associated with the Melanesian Mission toponyms are Alalang Paen (Under the Pines), The Kerapai (The Big Tree), Geare Pere (place of big or scarred rocks), and Valis we Poa (Big Grass).

These four periods with one significant addition—the modern era—constitute Norfolk Island's historical tapestry. The modern era, spanning 1942 to the present, follows the creation of the airstrip during World War II, which heralded the development of a tourism economy. Tourism has had a significant effect on both English and Norf'k toponymy.

The Norfolk Island language (Norf'k) stems from the contact language which emerged on Pitcairn Island from 1790 in a small community comprised of Polynesian language and English speakers. All the Pitcairn Islanders were moved to Norfolk Island in 1856. This marks the beginning of Norfolk as a form of the language of Pitcairn which has undergone changes due to its transplantation to a new environment. Both English and Norf'k are official languages of Norfolk Island.

The research used a four-taxon taxonomy to identify feature types on Norfolk (Figure 1).

1.3 The structure of the entries

There are six columns labelled in order from left to right: Name, Feature type, Island, Source, Notes, and Source type. ‘Name’ is self-explanatory; ‘Feature type’ is listed as either one of four taxa: geographical name, fishing ground name, road name, or house name according to the four-taxon taxonomy used in the research (Figure 1); ‘Island’ refers to either one of the three islands within the Norfolk Island archipelago: from north to south, Norfolk Island, Nepean Island, and Phillip Island; ‘Source’ gives data relating to the person who provided the data and when, and other reference information; ‘Notes’ is where content about the location, history, and personage of names are included, along with any other multiple etymological information; ‘Source type’ is either primary, that is, acquired through interview research and previously undocumented, or secondary, that is, from a written source.

3.0 THE DATASET

Entries in the following table are ordered alphabetically. Brief references only are used in the table; the corresponding full references appear at the end of the work.

Norfolk Island

| | Name | Feature type | Island | Source | Notes | Source type |
|----|-----------------|--|---------|---|--|-------------|
| 1. | 10 O’Clock Bank | Fishing ground | Phillip | Bev McCoy February 2008 | West end of Philip, half a mile out from the west end, close in, you can see people on the island from that mark, that’s how close it is. It was called 10 O’Clock Bank because they reckoned you used to wait there until 10 o’clock until the fish started biting. (McCoy February 2008) | Primary |
| 2. | Aa Big Pool | Topographical name | Norfolk | Rachel Borg April 2009 | Former name for Crystal Pool. ‘Aa Big Pool’ was the original Island name for what is now known today as ‘Crystal Pool’. I believe that during neap tides the Islanders went down to the big pool to collect sea salt. It is a favoured rock fishing spot and swimming hole. We are all taught to always watch the ocean here. (Borg April 2009) | Primary |
| 3. | Acme | Fishing ground | Norfolk | Bev McCoy February 2008 | There is a pine tree in Ralph Weslake’s paddock and you line it up with Jacky Jacky on Phillip Island, and the other mark is Bird Rock lined up with the quarry down at Cascade. There is good fishing there. It was named such because one of the old boats that used to fish out there was called Acme and they were the first ones to find that mark. (McCoy February 2008) | Primary |
| 4. | Ahstyk | House | Norfolk | Norfolk Island Telephone Directory 2007 | Fish found here are trumpeter, sometimes red snapper, sometimes groper and, rarely, kingfisher. (Graham, Evans November 2009) Located on Selwyn Pine Road. | Secondary |
| 5. | Alalang Paen | Topographical name (Melanesian Mission) | Norfolk | Farr 1894 (Volume 4): 87 | This name means ‘under the pines’ in Mota. It was so named because of a clump of Norfolk Island pines overshadowing the Mission quarters where the married couples lived. | Secondary |

|------------------------|--------------------|---------|---|--|-------------|
| 6. Alecs Paddock | Topographical name | Norfolk | Rachel Borg April 2009 | Same area as Boo-boos Paddock and Doodsies Paddock. Large flat paddock leading up to Taylors Road owned by Ben (Booboo) and Naomi (Doodsie) Christian, belonged to Alec Nobbs; his house was the one Ray Spræg lived in. We knew it as Boo-boo's Paddock or Doodsie's Paddock, older Islanders knew it as Alec's Paddock. (Borg April 2009) | Primary |
| 7. Alex Nobbs' House | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | "This home is reputed by the family to have been built ca 1896. Alexander Nobbs inherited the land and the house in 1900, though he probably lived in it since it was built. [...] Owner: Mr Spraggs." (Varman 1984: 121-122) | Secondary |
| 8. Alfred Nobbs Road | Road | Norfolk | The Administration of Norfolk Island 2008 | Title vests in the Administration. The original Freehold grant was to Alfred Augustine Nobbs. | Secondary |
| 9. Alfred Nobbs' House | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | Same building as Aunt Liza. [...] The house was built by or for Alfred Nobbs (1846-1906). [...] Owner: Mr Joe Nobbs (Varman 1984: 251) | Secondary |
| 10. Alfreds | Fishing ground | Norfolk | Bev McCoy February 2008 | An old name. Possibly named after Alfred Snell. A close-in mark. Not for quantity, just for a feed. To locate this ground, Moo-oo Stone and Red Stone are lined up and Nepean Island and Bucks Point are just in line with each other. (McCoy February 2008) Trumpeter can be caught here. (Graham, Evans November 2009) | Primary |
| 11. Alices | House | Norfolk | Nash photos 2007 | Located on Grassy Road. | Primary |
| 12. Allendale | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | This house burned down in 1994, burning with it one of the original tablets from the Bounty. A new house has subsequently been built. Located on Allendale Drive. This house was completed in 1883, according to a family bible belonging to Mrs Ruth Mc Coy. The house was occupied by Charles Allen Christian and his wife Nora Leonora nee Nobbs. It was later passed onto their son Frank Bell Christian and later to his daughter Ruth Mc Coy who occupies the house with her husband Baker [Foxy] Mc Coy and their family. [...] Owner: Mr and Mrs B and R Mc Coy. (Varman 1984: 144) | Secondary |

| 13. Ama Ula Lane | Road | Norfolk | Administration of Norfolk Island 2008 | A recently gazetted road. (Administration of Norfolk Island 2008) 'Ama'ula' means 'clumsy' in Norfolk. | Secondary |
| 14. Anam Cara | House | Norfolk | Nash photos 2009 | Located on Stockyard Road. | Primary |
| 15. Andrew Evans Road | Road | Norfolk | Alan McNeil 8/2/08 | A 'paper road' that exists on paper and nowhere else. This road is located left off Cascade Road past Mill Road. Alan McNeil came up with this name in order to deal with a title claim on Andrew Evans' property. | Primary |
| 16. Annie Dongs | House | Norfolk | Rachel Borg April 2009 | A well-loved Norfolk house name attributed to former resident, Annie 'Brighty' Adams. She was Brightman Adams' wife. The property was named after Annie Jackson, also known as 'Nan' Adams. She was a large American negro lady who came to Norfolk with the American Whalers. Her home burnt down to the ground. The current house is positioned today in exactly the exactly same spot that Annie had her home. The property is also known as 'Annie Dongs Corner' or 'Apple Vale'. (Borg April 2009) | Primary |
| 17. Anson Bay | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | I was personally unaware until recently that this was also called Flagstaff although I understand that in years gone by when conditions were unsuitable at both jettys, cargo was sometimes off-loaded at Anson Bay and livestock swum ashore. I have heard a few Islanders say this is a 'fraidy side' but that the hi-hi are big. Islanders who live and have grown up in this area will know more. (Borg April 2009) | Secondary |

| 24. Ar Bamboo | Topographical name | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | [...] a large clump of giant bamboo [...] regarded by the older generation of Islanders to pre-date the arrival of the Pitcairners. The Islanders used the clump of bamboo as a navigation point when fishing. (Varman 1984: 31) | Secondary |
| 25. Ar Benk fe Pile Hanis | Fishing ground | Norfolk | Shirley Harrison field notes c. 1970 | Puss Anderson had heard of this mark, but was not sure exactly where it was. Suspects it is to the northwest of the Island. (Anderson November 2009) | Secondary |
| 26. Ar Coop | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | A fishing area at Steels Point possibly named because the area is shaped like a chicken coop. | Secondary |
| 27. Ar Deep Walley | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | Literally a very deep narrow valley near Prince Phillip Lookout which broadens into Cockpit. (April 2009) | Secondary |
| 28. Ar House fer Ma Nobbys | Fishing ground | Norfolk | Puss Anderson November 2009 | Also know as Ma Nobbys. | Primary |
| 29. Ar Pine fer Robinsons | Fishing ground | Norfolk | David Graham, Tardy Evans November 2009 | This fishing ground lines up the quarry in line with Cascade Road on top of the Whaling Station, and a pine tree on the cliff edge there and it just comes clear of the High Point, just over the High Point, at Steels Point. Same as the placename 'Ar Pine fer Robinson's'. Trumpeter is caught here. (Graham, Evans November 2009) | Primary |
| 30. Ar Pine fer Robinsons | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | Literally 'the pine of/for Robinson's' or simply 'Robinson's Pine'. Robinson came to Norfolk as a teacher for the public school. The well-known pine was located on his property in the Steels Point area though Robinson lived at Rocky Point. The tree in Robinson's paddock was felled years ago. Like many of the trees and landmarks on Norfolk, this pine was used in lining up several offshore fishing grounds but when they were cut down, many good offshore fishing locations were lost. | Secondary |
| 31. Ar Saddle | Fishing ground | Phillip | Bev McCoy February 2008 | Same mark as Tilleys. Use the south rock of the west side of Phillip and as you are coming out into the Passage make a gap then line up three pines at Garnet Point so that the they sit right in the middle of The Saddle on Nepean. (McCoy February 2008) | Primary |

| 32. Ar Side fer Doddes | Fishing ground | Norfolk | Bev McCoy February 2008 | Norfolk fishermen do not remember who Doddos was. But, No Trouble is in the area known as 'Ar Side fer Doddos'. It covers a lot of area. You can just about take Jacky Jacky anywhere across the Island and you will hit No Trouble. (McCoy February 2008) | Primary |
| 33. Ar Side fer Honeys | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | | Secondary |
| 34. Ar Yes | Fishing ground | Phillip | Bev McCoy February 2008 | West point of Phillip. This fishing ground is also known as Ikes and Iyes. The reason they call it that is because when your line hits the bottom and the fish start biting, you say 'Ar yes! They're down there!' You line up the pine trees on Collins Head across the High Point on Nepean, and you travel west until a little rock on Phillip Island comes out in the cliff like a head. It's about three or four miles from 10 O'Clock Bank. You mainly get trumpeter and sweet lip [red emperor] there. If it is called 'Ike's' it is referring to Isaac 'Ike' Christian. (McCoy February 2008) Trumpeter and red snapper are caught here. (Graham, Evans November 2009) | Primary |
| 35. Araluen | House | Norfolk | Nash photos 2008 | Located on Mission Road. | Primary |
| 36. Arcadia | Fishing ground | Nepean | Bev McCoy February 2008 | There was no name for the mark and the Arcadia passenger ship was passing at the time when Bellie McCoy was fishing there once. Trumpeter are caught here. (Graham, Evans November 2009) | Primary |
| 37. Arch, The | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | | Secondary |

| 39. Arlie Howe | House | Norfolk | Norfolk Island Museum Cultural Map 2007 | Ancient Tahitian word 'arevau' meaning 'upper valley dwellers'. In Pitcairn it was the name of a small white winter flowering plant which grew in the valleys and on the cliffs. In Norfolk 'Arlehau' is the name of the small stone 'farmers' cottage in the upper valley on the dam-side under Flagstaff Hill, Kingston. It is still there today. (Borg April 2009) | Secondary |

| 47. Aunt Ems | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | This house was built on a “U” shaped plan for Nash Christian. The land was inherited through Nash Christian’s mother Nora Leonora nee Nobbs in 1911. According to the family the house was begun in 1912 but was not completed until some years later. [...] The house was named after Nash Christian’s wife, Emily nee Quintal, who ran the house as a guest house on a modest scale. Aunt Em’s was taken over by Emily Christian’s daughter Nora Jane Mitchell, (Jean), and is now the only guest house left on Norfolk Island run along traditional lines. In former years this was the only form of accommodation on the Island where guest could experience both the Island’s traditional cooking and hospitality. (Varman 1984: 122) | Secondary |
| 48. Aunt Jemima and Cobby Robinsons | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | This house was built during the early years of this century. The house has been abandoned since the death of Aunt Jemima and is in a rather sad state of repair. Owner: Mr S. Nobbs. (Varman 1984: 252) | Secondary |
| 49. Aunt Jemima Avenue | Road | Norfolk | Rachel Borg April 2009 | Named after a row of Norfolk pines in KAVHA number 100 [which] was planted in honour of Aunt Jemima Robinson’s 100th birthday who was the wife of Isaac ‘Cobby’ Robinson. (Borg April 2009) | Primary |

This confirms that there must have been an element of truth in the story of Barney Duffy, passed to the Pitcairn Islanders in 1856 by the few convicts remaining behind to show the Islanders the way. The name for the gully became disused after 1856 but became more localised in the naming of the pine in which Barney Duffy was supposed to have lived. The pine was burned down by some New Zealand soldiers during the mid 1940s. The area where the gully meets the sea is still referred to by Island fishermen as 'Barney Duffy's'. Stephen Christian sold eight acres to Frank Burton who in turn gave it to Agnes C.F. Burton in 1911. In 1913 the property was sold to Albert Randall, a settler from Canada. According to the Randall family the house was built by the Burtons. It appears that the house was built in 1911 or soon after. Albert Randall sold the house and property to G.A. Laird in 1926 and took his family to New Zealand. Bennett must have owned the property after Laird. After Bennett, Ernest Christian became owner and thoroughly renovated the house during the late 1960s or early 1970s. The family traditions and land transactions suggest a late 1880s date for the house. The original grantee, Jonathan Adams, sold the 51 acre allotment to Charles Christian in 1863. Charles Christian's daughter, "Caroline Evans", (Catherine, or Kitty, wife of George F. M. Evans), received the twelve acres upon which the house was built in 1887. Her son built the house for himself and family, (or had the house built). The family consisted of his wife, Evangeline Buffett (and later Jane Adams) and at least eleven children. | 213. Cross ar Water | Topographical name | Norfolk | Edgecombe-Martin map | There may have been a timber bridge here in the 1840s. The area is very swampy which made the survey difficult. No remains were found. The road along this area was probably used as a short-cut to the Cascade Station from the Longridge Station, Mount Pitt and the New Farm and Main Gulley Farm areas. (Varman 1984: 54) When Islanders say 'wi gwen crows a wort'a' it is a specific place; the bridge/creek at the bottom of the valley that separates New Cascade and Cascade Roads. | 372. Gods Country | Topographical name | Norfolk | Rachel Borg April 2009 | This general term is often used in good-natured ribbing. If one Norfolk Islander talks to another about which part of the Island they live in you will often hear them talk about 'God's Country'. It's a long-running joke, a subtle jibe and an allusion to the fact that they live in the best part of the Island. But here is the irony, God's country is no particular place at all, but if you grew up at Steeles Point for example (then that's God's country), and then lived at Shortridge, (then funnily enough, that's God's Country too). At the end of the day all Islanders agree that Norfolk is 'God's Country'. (Borg April 2009) | Primary |

| 447. Ikey Bobs | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | The original grant was to Dinah Quintal but by 1887 the land had been transferred to Abraham Quintal, her son. Dinah Quintal nee Adams was the daughter of the bounty mutineer John Adams and was born in 1796 and died in 1864, her husband had died in 1841 on Pitcairn Island. The house was built by Abraham Quintal (1827-1910) probably during the 1870s [...] The house passed on to Emily Edwards, the daughter of Abraham and Esther 'Moriah' nee Nobbs. Emily (1875-1961) was born in the house, so the house must have been built by 1875. After Emily's death the house passed to her son Ike Edwards for life tenancy and then to a sister of Ike's, Ilma Heyden. The house is now owned by [sic] Mrs Jeanine Brown, a niece of Ike and Ilma. [...] Owner: Mrs Jeanine Brown. (Varman 1984: 241-246) | Secondary |

| 451. Iyes | Fishing ground | Phillip | Bev McCoy February 2008 | West point of Phillip. The reason they call it that is because when your line hits the bottom and the fish start biting, you say 'Ar yes! They're down there!' You line up the pine trees on Collins Head across the High Point on Nepean, and you travel west until a little rock on Phillip Island comes out in the cliff like a head. It's about three or four miles from 10 O'Clock Bank. You mainly get trumpeter and sweet lip [red emperor] there. If it is called 'Ike's' it is referring to Isaac 'Ike' Christian. (McCoy February 2008) Trumpeter and red snapper can be caught here. (Graham, Evans November 2009) This is the same feature as Ar Yes, Ikes. | Primary |

| 674. Pa Chris' | House | Norfolk | Varman 1984 | According to the descendants of Reuben Christian, the house is later than Pa Reuben's. The house was probably built between the late 1870s and 1889, (when Selwyn died). The house was built by or for Selwyn Christian, who was married in 1887. His first and only child, Gertrude, is recorded as having been born at "Cascade", (referring to this part of the Island), in 1878. (Though, it must be admitted that at that time both brothers could have been sharing Pa Reuben's at that time). The house was passed on from daughter to daughter for three generations: Gertrude, who married Fletcher Christian Nobbs, (Pa Chris), passed it onto her daughter, Susan Nobbs; Susan, who married George Albert (Sonny) Evans, left his house to her daughter Dolly; Dolly married Dalyell Christian. The house has been passed onto their son, Gary Christian (who is descended on his father's side from Reuben Christian). With the permission of her betrothed she sold her engagement ring to buy the nails that built the house which still stands today. (Borg April 2009) | Primary |

The house was probably built by or for Charles Christian, (1818-1886). Two of Charles' sons benefited in 1887 from the Will concerning Lot 14. Selwyn (1857 – 1889) received the western half, and Reuben (1856 -) the eastern half. Selwyn received the portion with the house. In 1896 Selwyn transferred it and a strip of six acres to Reuben. By this time Selwyn's house had been built. In 1931, the house passed to Ernest Selwyn Christian for life interest. Charles Christian's daughter, "Caroline Evans", (Catherine, or Kitty, wife of George F. M. Evans), received the twelve acres upon which the house was built in 1887. Her son built the house for himself and family, (or had the house built). The family consisted of his wife, Evangeline Buffett (and later Jane Adams) and at least eleven children. However, legend has it that the Pitcairners introduced this species to Norfolk Island. The tree is reported to grow like a weed on Pitcairn Island. As the Pitcairners may have recognized the tree when (or if) they saw it on Norfolk Island when they first arrived, subsequent generations may have assumed that it was introduced from Pitcairn Island. There is no reason why the Pitcairners should have bothered to take seeds with them as the tree is of no or little use. The older generation believed that the timber made good posts in swampy areas. | 912. The Bar | Topographical name | Norfolk | Merv Buffett April 2009 | During convict times, several men drowned 'crossing the bar'. This is recorded on some headstones in the cemetery. 'The Bar' is a petrified wooden wharf or slipway under the water in Cemetery Bay near 'Murderer's Mound'. It was used by the convicts to transport sandstone from Nepean Island to Kingston during the Second Settlement. There are very rough seas in this area and there is a strong undertow so a lot of them drowned crossing 'The Bar'. It is underwater and it can sometimes be seen from the shore when it is not covered in sand. (Buffett April 2009) | Primary |
